

Travel Expense Policy

You may be required to travel in the course of performing your job responsibilities. Bonafide reasons for travel include visiting customers, going to vessels and shipyards, participating in meetings at a different Marquette office location, attending training and conferences, and other travel as directed by your supervisor. Marquette expects you to make reasonable efforts to control your travel expenses and to avoid unnecessary costs, as you would if the expenses were your own. Some of the steps which you are expected to take to save money are:

- Make airline reservations early to qualify for discounted fares.
- Use hotels and rental car companies with whom Marquette has negotiated rates.
- Dine in moderately priced restaurants.
- Refuel rental cars before returning them.

AIR TRAVEL

You are required to travel coach class for all air travel. The lowest airfare should generally be booked unless there are extenuating circumstances. Connections should be considered weighing the difference in travel time compared to cost. Book flights at least 7 days in advance when possible. When flying Southwest, the fee for Early Bird Check-In is an acceptable expense for reimbursement.

If you cancel or change your reservation, you must do so prior to your scheduled departure. Failure to do so may result in the forfeiture of the cancelled flight credit. Flight credits from cancelled business trips must be used for future business trips.

Participation in frequent flyer programs is permitted. Decisions for selecting an air carrier are not to be influenced by the benefits from a frequent flyer program. Frequent flyer points/rewards may be used for your benefit/personal travel. If you choose to use frequent flyer points/rewards for business travel, you cannot be reimbursed for the value of the points. Only the cost of the flight not covered by your points is eligible for reimbursement.

LODGING

Hotels where Marquette has negotiated rates should be booked for business travel when possible. The list of hotels with negotiated rates is provided in the Preferred Travel Vendors section of this policy. In locations where there is not a hotel with a negotiated rate, employees should use good judgment and choose moderately priced hotels. If a moderately priced hotel is not available, seek your supervisor's guidance on hotel selection. If you need to cancel a hotel room reservation, please do so in a timely manner to avoid no-show fees.

Participation in hotel reward programs is permitted. Decisions for selecting a hotel are not to be influenced by the benefits from a reward program. Hotel points/rewards may be used for your benefit/personal travel. If you choose to use points/rewards for business travel, you cannot be reimbursed for the value of the points. Only the cost of the hotel stay not covered by your points is eligible for reimbursement.

MEALS

Meals qualify under IRS regulations as a business expense when they occur during an out-of-town overnight business trip. Employees should use good judgment and choose moderately priced restaurants.

When dining with a group, the most senior level person, regardless of organizational reporting structure, should pay for the bill to ensure approval of the expenses by the next level of management, independent of the activity. In a special situation where the most senior level person attending does not pay, the reason should be noted on the expense report.

Meal expenses for employees not traveling are generally discouraged. Lunches brought into the office for groups while working through lunch are reimbursable if infrequent in nature and supervisor approval is obtained. Occasional meals for teambuilding purposes are acceptable with supervisor approval. Individual or groups of employees going out to lunch together are not reimbursable and are the responsibility of the individual employees.

OTHER EXPENSES

Ground Transportation/Rental Cars

When selecting ground transportation, employees should use good judgment and choose lower cost options when possible. Ground transportation choices include shuttle services, taxis/rideshare options, such as Uber and Lyft, personal automobiles with mileage reimbursement, company cars, and rental cars.

If a rental car is determined to be the best option, it should be booked with Marquette's preferred vendor as noted in the Preferred Travel Vendors section of this policy. The Company maintains collision and liability coverage for employees using rented autos on Company business. Collision and Damage Waiver (CDW) and Personal Accident Insurance (PAI) are to be declined. Optional insurance coverages are not reimbursable as Company expenses.

Should an accident occur while using a rental car, you must immediately notify the rental agency and the appropriate Marquette Claims department. See the Reporting Accident section of HR25 Company Vehicle policy for additional information.

Rental car refueling option, whereby the car rental company refuels the car, should be declined. Gas should be refilled before the car is returned. Receipts for gasoline are to be submitted for reimbursement with your expense report.

Extra fees for studded tires are reimbursable when the employee is visiting a destination with snow and/or ice-covered roads.

Parking and Tolls

Reasonable parking, bridge and highway tolls will be reimbursed. When parking at the airport, employees should use good judgment and select reasonably priced parking options.

Mileage

Employees using personal automobiles on Company business will be reimbursed at the Company mileage rate for the miles traveled on business. The approved mileage rate is set annually by the IRS and can be found at this link. The mileage rate is intended to cover all costs of owning and operating the car, including fuel. Any collision or liability claim will be covered by your own insurance. You are required to maintain at least the minimum recommended insurance on personal vehicles used for Company business.

Baggage Fees

Marquette will reimburse luggage fees for up to 2 normal sized bags. Marquette will not reimburse fees incurred from oversize, overweight, or more than 2 pieces of checked baggage.

Personal Travel

The excess cost of circuitous or side trips or for the extension of a business trip for personal reasons is not reimbursable. When the savings on airfare exceed the cost of staying at the destination for part of the weekend, an employee, with prior approval, willing to stay the extra day may have the additional expenses for lodging and meals paid for by the Company.

Spouse's Travel

Airfare, meals, and other expenses of an accompanying spouse must be approved by a member of the executive team to be reimbursed.

Laundry

Marquette will reimburse reasonable laundry expenses when the traveler is away from home for six days or longer.

Tips

Reasonable tips for normal services related to business travel are reimbursable. As a general guideline, reasonable tips are:

- Baggage - $1-$2 per bag. Valet - $2-$5
- Taxi/Rideshare (Uber or Lyft) - 15-20% of total
- Restaurant - 20% of total

NON-REIMBURSABLE EXPENSES

Non-reimbursable items include but are not limited to:

- Trip insurance
- Childcare fees
- Pet boarding fees
- Personal items (clothes, toiletries, medicine, cigars, cigarettes, etc.)
- Personal services (e.g., barbering or shoeshine)
- Luggage, luggage lost or stolen and its contents
- VIP and/or airline clubs
- Personal entertainment such as movies, magazines, and newspapers
- Traffic tickets on a personal, rented or Company leased vehicle and towage charges due to parking violations
- Fines, late fees, and other penalty charges

REPORTING OF EXPENSES

You must report all reimbursable expenses for travel on an expense report. To be eligible for reimbursement, the business purpose must be identified on the expense report. Detailed receipts are required for all business expenses, unless all of the following criteria are met:

- Less than $25
- Paid with a company credit card
- Travel related expense that is not lodging.

Expense reports are to be submitted at least once per month for any charges incurred in the previous month. Frequent travelers (i.e., sales, engineering) should submit their reports on a weekly basis. Expenses submitted more than 60 days after incurred can be considered taxable income.
